in the third quarterly essay for 2006 inga clendinnen looks past the skirmishes and pitched battles of the history wars and asks what s at stake what kind of history do we want and need should our historians be producing the objective record of achievement that the prime minister has called for for clendinnen historians cannot be the midwives of national identity and also be true to their profession history cannot do the work of myth clendinnen illuminates the ways in which history myth and fiction differ from one another and why the differences are important in discussing what good history looks like she pays tribute to the human need for story telling but notes the distinctive critical role of the historian she offers a spirited critique of kate grenville s novel the secret river and discusses the stolen generations and the role of morality in history writing this is an eloquent and stimulating essay about a subject that has generated much heat in recent times how we should record and regard the nation s past who owns the past in a free society everyone it is a magic pudding belonging to anyone who wants to cut themselves a slice from legend manufacturers through novelists looking for ready made plots to interest groups out to extend their influence inga clendinnen the history question endurance presents stories of ordinary australians grappling with extraordinary circumstances providing insight into their lives their experiences with drought and their perceptions of climate change the book opens with the physical impacts science politics and economics of drought and climate change in rural australia it then highlights the cultural and historical dimensions taking us to the mallee wheat belt where researcher deb anderson interviewed farm families from 2004 to 2007 as climate change awareness grew each story is grouped into one of three themes survival uncertainty and adaptation illustrated with beautiful colour photographs from museum victoria endurance will appeal to anyone with an interest in life stories rural australia and the environment beaten down by blood the battle of mont st quentin peronne 1918 charts an extraordinary journey from the trenches facing mont st quentin on 31 august 1918 through the frenetic phases of the battle until the final objectives are taken on 5 september this is the story often told in the words of the men themselves of the capture of the unattackable mont and the invincible fortress town of péronne two of the great feats of australian forces in the first world war the author places real men on the battlefield describing their fears and their courage and their often violent deaths the struggle for control of the battle to site the guns to bridge the somme and maintain communications are portrayed in vivid detail the story also offers a glimpse of the men s families at home their anxiety and their life long grief exploring the response of evangelicals to the collapse of greater christian britain in australia in the long 1960s this book provides a new religious perspective to the end of empire and a fresh national perspective to the end of christendom in the turbulent 1960s two foundations of the western world rapidly and unexpectedly collapsed christendom marked by the dominance of discursive christianity in public culture and greater britain the powerful sentimental and strategic union of britain and its settler societies disappeared from the collective mental map with startling speed to illuminate these contemporaneous global shifts this book takes as a case study the response of australian evangelical christian leaders to the cultural and religious crises encountered between 1959 and 1979 far from being a narrow national study this book places its case studies in the context of the latest north american and european scholarship on secularisation imperialism and evangelicalism drawing on a wide range of archival sources it examines critical figures such as billy graham fred nile and hans mol as well as issues of empire counter cultural movements and racial and national identity this study will be of particular interest to any scholar of evangelicalism in the twentieth century it will also be a useful resource for academics looking into the wider impacts of the decline of christianity and the british empire in western civilisation
